Routine Business With Little Talk

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

The City Council Monday night handled volume routine business with little discussion arising over matters before the body, with exception of the request for rezoning for the Washington Park property owned by the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Co., from R-1 to C-3, highway business. This brought a motion from Councilman Walter Jessee, to table the matter for further investigation.

Jesse, when the report of the Planning and Zoning Commission was read approving the rezoning, took the floor and objected. "This land has been a public park for more than 20 years. I understand the request is for 'highway business' but what I want to know is what kind of business do they propose? I would like to see it remain a park, it is in my Ward, and people over the years have enjoyed it. If possible I would like to see the City retain the property if possible and keep it as is.

"I move we table this matter until further investigation," Jesse said and the motion was seconded by Councilman Otis Wiley. The vote was unanimous.

A request of Don A. Carver to rezoned three lots on the north side of Broadway at Monroe from R-1 to C-1 was approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission whose report was read to the Council. After a brief discussion the council approved the request.

At first, after a motion was made to approve, and on voice vote, there were several yes votes and a no vote. Mayor L. L. Studer called for a roll call, and Councilman Robert Bader took the floor and remarked, "it isn't that I oppose this, but in fairness just a month ago a similar request was made and it was turned down because there were not specific plans or information as to what type of business would go on the property. This request likewise does not specify what the business will be."

Then on roll call vote all eight Council members voted yes.

A request to approve property at 16th Street and Marshall as a new addition and plat, affecting about 150 feet along Marshall south of 16th, was given approval on the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Councilman Carl Meyer under Street and Alley reports called for the opening of bids on a large quantity of corrugated pipe to be used in the Department. Six bids were opened, S. P. Johns Lumber Co., $2,363.34; Metal Products, Armo Steel Co., $2,216.58; Fisher Construction Co., $2,309.53; Sedalia Lumber Co., $2,309.53; Herrman Lumber Co., $2,216.99; and Home Lumber Co., $2,290.00.

Councilman Bader moved the Metal Products bid be stricken inasmuch as the bid was made by a representative of the company and not by a firm doing business in Sedalia. The vote was unanimous.

The bids were then voted to be turned over to the Street and Alley Committee to accept the lowest and best bid.

Councilman J. C. Griffin requested two street lights, both approved by the Gas, Lights and

Everybodytalksabout Is Name For Indian

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)—Everybodytalksabout, a 21-year-old Indian from Redwood City, first name Sam, was in San Mateo county jail Monday on an assault charge.

Deputy Sheriff Gerald Coeulle said he broke in on a conversation between Everybodytalksabout and Mrs. Everybodytalksabout, 19, first name Janet, that had erupted into violence.

Sam slashed Janet's arm with a knife, Coeulle said.

Everybodytalksabout conceded, Coeulle said, that a jug of fire-water had put the pow in the pow wov.

State House Tackles Its Big Docket

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri House tackled its jammed docket with its first working night session Monday night.

These top developments highlighted the long and busy day:

1. A House committee approved a bill to legalize horse and dog racing and at-the-track betting but Rep. James G. Trimble, D-Clay County, the majority leader, held out little hope for it this late in the session.

2. The House passed and sent to the Senate a conflict of interest bill to keep public officials from realizing private gain from their political posts. It is one of Gov. John M. Dalton's top recommendations.

3. Advanced 14 measures in the night session, including a proposed constitutional amendment to give free hunting and fishing permits to those over 65 and a bill to set up a state council on the arts.

The horse racing proposal would set up a state commission to operate the tracks. Shares of the revenue would be allotted for schools, mental health and general revenue.

The conflict of interest bill was passed 122-18 and is similar to one that died two years ago. It includes a requirement that lobbyists register with the Legislature and report how much money they spend trying to get bills passed or killed.

No public official could transact public business with a firm in which he had a substantial interest.

The Senate met only briefly. A House committee killed a bill—advocated by Gov. Dalton—to set up a permanent commission to protect the Executive Mansion as an historic shrine.

According to J. C. Griffin, chairman of the parking committee, the group discussed new uniforms, different from the regulation police uniform, that will probably be worn by members of the Parking Department. A system of paying for and maintaining the uniforms similar to the system now in effect in the Police Department, will be worked out.

Atlantic Pact Powers In Ottawa Meet

To Give Approval On Allied Nuclear Force for NATO

OTTAWA (AP)—Statesmen of the 15 Atlantic pact powers gathered in Ottawa today to give formal approval to a compromise formula—approved by President Charles de Gaulle—permitting the formation of an allied nuclear force.

Delegates of France and several other countries said the formula would be set forth in the final communiqué of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's spring meeting of foreign and defense ministers. The three-day meeting opens Wednesday.

The formula leaves the force nameless and without a command structure of its own. The French said they would block the project if it was portrayed as something new, or extraordinary, or implying fresh commitments.

The conference communiqué reportedly will say that:

1. Britain is assigning her entire 180-plane V-bomber force, complete with hydrogen bombs, to U.S. Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in Europe.

2. The United States is assigning three nuclear-powered submarines, armed with Polaris missiles, to Lemnitzer.

3. These forces will augment tactical strike forces with a nuclear capacity.

4. Other actions are to be taken to improve liaison on nuclear weapons policy between all members of the alliance.

A British delegate observed: "Gen. De Gaulle has decreed that this baby shall be nameless. Still it's hard for him to deny that it is a baby."

Meter Men Shift Brings New Problem

Separation of the Police Department and the Parking Meter Department accomplished by the City Council Monday night created some problems that were taken up immediately after the council meeting when the parking committee of the council, and Councilman E. B. Smith, met with Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin to discuss necessary changes that will have to be made when the new system becomes effective June 1, and to discuss other problems that they and others believe are certain to arise.

According to J. C. Griffin, chairman of the parking committee, the group discussed new uniforms, different from the regulation police uniform, that will probably be worn by members of the Parking Department. A system of paying for and maintaining the uniforms similar to the system now in effect in the Police Department, will be worked out.

Appointments Are Made by Council

By D. Kelly Scruton

The city council Monday night made appointments for several city departments, and eliminated one employee who holds an elective office. Seven departments were affected by the action of the council.

U. L. Howerton, who has been traffic clerk for several years and who a year ago was elected city magistrate but permitted to retain the clerk's job on a reduced salary, was eliminated from the re-appointment list in the parking department. Howerton was replaced by J. H. Marr, 1401 South

Ohio, retired Missouri Pacific employee.

The salary structure of all city employees was left open and appointments were given unanimous approval without the salary for the particular job being presented. Councilman E. B. Smith, chairman of the finance and tax committee, stated that before the salary's could be determined the annual budget first would have to be settled. There is not a question of lowering salaries but a study is being made to ascertain the feasibility of a raise to all employees.

The following lists were presented: General Administrative Department, Ralph Dedrick, city clerk; Shirley Collins, stenographer; Edna McFarland, stenographer; Mary Joe Cassidy, secretary to the Mayor; Earl Crawford, city counselor; Raymond Whittall, restaurant, milk and license inspector.

Fire Department: E. L. Vaught, fire chief; George Smethers, assistant chief; Walter DeLapp and Willis Jabas, captains; Robert McPherson, mechanic; C. W. Gordy, Frank Sloan, Edward Shine, Leo Gentes, Kenneth Sublett, Chester Anderson, M. Gene Kelley, Kenneth Neidhardt, Raymond Pirtle, all listed as drivers; Vincent Sullivan, Joel Scott, Ernest Carver, Edwin Homan, Paul Erickson, J. D. Bunch, James Huffman, James Cable, Leonard McNeal, Robert Kelley, John Crook, and Jerry Morris, listed as class "A" firemen; Glen Leon Payne, class "C" fireman.

JFK Award To Cooper For Flight

Smile And Word Of Thanks Is All For The Astronaut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gordon Cooper, the unruffled 22-orbit astronaut, came to the capital today and received the honors and unstinting accolades of President Kennedy and an admiring nation.

Kennedy bestowed the NASA Distinguished Service Medal on the man who has achieved America's greatest conquest of space. "You have given the country a great day and a great lift," Kennedy said.

About all Cooper could manage was a smile and a word of thanks for what he said was a great honor.

The astronaut flew to Andrews Air Force Base from Cape Canaveral, Fla., the launching site of his vast adventure. A helicopter took him to the Ellipse between the White House and the Washington monument.

From there, the 36-year-old Air Force major, his beaming wife and their two teen-age daughters, went by limousine to the White House with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson as their escort.

Kennedy met Cooper with outstretched hand when the astronaut stepped from the limousine in the White House driveway.

Kennedy escorted Cooper and his wife and daughters into his office, where Mrs. Kennedy was waiting at the door.

A throng of a couple hundred persons, important figures of all branches of the government, and friends and relatives of the Cooper's crowded into the White House rose garden for the medal ceremony and applauded loudly.

Kennedy beckoned to the other U.S. astronauts—all were present except John Glenn who is in Japan to get up closer.

He called them "a very distinguished group of Americans who in our time, in this very settled society, have demonstrated there are great frontiers still to be crossed."

Cooper went farthest of all in space, said the President, speaking on the 36th anniversary of Charles A. Lindbergh's nonstop flight from New York to Paris.

Segregation Causes Convention Change

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Segregation problems caused cancellation Monday of plans to hold the American Legion's 1963 national convention in New Orleans.

The legion's executive committee faced the task of finding a new site for the convention, which had been set for Sept. 6-12.

Louisiana legionnaires withdrew their invitation because of inability to guarantee unsegregated facilities for delegates.

'Draft Goldwater' Group Set in Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Draft Goldwater Committee, Inc., has been chartered in Florida. Attorney Ellis Rubin said today a state headquarters will be set up in the metropolitan Miami area to push Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., for the presidency.

King Calls School Board Action a 'Tragic Move'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Negro leaders say they will go to federal court in efforts to void a Birmingham school board order to expel or suspend more than 1,000 Negro pupils who demonstrated against segregation.

The school board's action Monday was not unexpected, and Negro leaders said they planned to fight the move only by legal means.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said on his return from Atlanta, "We will not call for a mass walkout or boycott of the schools, nor will we call for a renewal of demonstrations at this point."

After a meeting with other integration leaders, King said, "We will not seek to correct an unwise act by moving hastily into another unwise act."

The decision by the Negro leaders saved a shaky biracial agreement which had been threatened by the school board's handling of the dispute.

"We know there are certain forces in Birmingham trying to sabotage this agreement," King said.

He called the board's action "a tragic move, immoral . . . a dastardly act."

In a letter to school principals, Supt. Theo Wright ordered immediate expulsion of pupil participants over 16 and suspension of those under 16. It affects 1,081 pupils arrested in protest marches over the past several weeks.

A school board spokesman said the action was in keeping with the board's policy on truancy.

On another front, Commissioner-Mayor Arthur Hanes called a Supreme Court decision outlawing city and state interference in sit-in demonstrations "an accommodation for those arrested here."

In Mood of Optimism

Virtual Agreement On Tariff Cutting

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. and Common Market delegates said today they had reached virtual agreement on how to cut trade barriers in the Western world. A mood of optimism soared over the tariff conference which had been on the verge of failure.

The American delegation gave much of the credit to West German Vice Chancellor Ludwig Erhard who reportedly has been sticking up for American ideas in arguments with his Common Market partners.

A U.S. source said Washington has agreed to the European demand that some special rule be adopted for reducing American tariffs which are, in general, higher than European ones.

"So the differences between us now are small," said French Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing.

There was hope the conference, which began Thursday, would end today with adoption of a system of tariff negotiations by the conference of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The optimism appeared after Cabinet ministers of the Common Market offered a new compromise early this morning.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton signed a bill today making it a graduated felony to write an insufficient fund check for $100 or more. It becomes effective Oct. 13.

Under present law, regardless of the amount of a check, the maximum penalty is 12 months in jail or a fine up to $1,000.

Under the new law, the maximum penalty for an insufficient fund check of less than $100 will be six months in jail or a fine up to $500.

For checks of $100 or more the penalty is a jail term up to a year, and a fine up to $1,000 or both, or imprisonment in the penitentiary up to five years.

Under the new law the check writer also will be given 10 days instead of five to make the check good.

The new bill was sponsored by Sen. Noel Cox, R-Spokane.

Also signed was a bill to leave five northern Missouri judicial circuits as they are now. Under a 1959 redistricting law, they would have been revamped in 1965.

Here are the circuits and the counties they will continue to cover:

Circuit 1—Clark, Schuyler and Scotland.

Circuit 2—Adair, Knox and Lewis.

Circuit 3—Grundy, Harrison, Mercer and Putnam.

Circuit 43—Caldwell, Davies and Livingston.

High Court's Ruling Seen As Open Door

NAACP Official Says Sit-Ins Will Increase

ATLANTA (AP)—Negro sit-in activity will increase as a result of the Supreme Court's decision on sit-in demonstrations, says a top attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mrs. Constance Baker Motley, associate counsel of the NAACP's legal defense fund, told a news conference in New York Monday the decision would increase the desire of Negroes to be served in restaurants and other establishments.

She said this would lead to many more demonstrations throughout the nation.

The court ruled Monday that a state or city may not interfere, in any fashion, with peaceful sit-in demonstrations in public places of business. However, the court did not draw a clear line of when a shopkeeper may on his own refuse to serve Negroes or call police to have them evicted from his property.

Mrs. Motley later told a mass rally of Negroes in Birmingham, Ala., that the decision would clear about 300 students convicted in Southern sit-ins. She said the decision left Birmingham department store owners "free to serve Negroes on the same basis as other citizens."

"I think the decision was as great as the Supreme Court decision in the school cases," she said.

Sees Wallace As Big Foe In Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was described today as knowing that in Gov. George Wallace of Alabama he is dealing with a man who hopes to take the South away from him in 1964.

A close associate said the President is aware that Wallace hopes to hold himself out as a martyr to Southern segregationists by a dramatic stand against integration at the University of Alabama.

This could come either at the university branch in Huntsville in June or on the Tuscaloosa campus next September. In either setting, those who know him well say they expect the governor to carry out his repeated pledge personally to block the doorway against admission of a Negro student.

It apparently would fit the governor's political purpose if he were arrested by U.S. marshals. But the assumption is that news pictures showing U.S. officials jostling him aside would do about as well.

According to one of those present, Kennedy got the governor's personal pledge in a brief helicopter confrontation last Saturday that local and state civilian authorities would maintain law and order in Birmingham.

Saying that nothing could please him more, the President replied that he would not use federal troops dispatched to military reservations in Alabama unless there were fresh and uncontrolled racial disturbances.

But the President made it plain he would use federal force if necessary to maintain the rights of Negroes to peaceable assembly and petition.

In confidences he has held with some Southern senators, Wallace has outlined plans to run for president. He has expressed the belief that he could sweep the South and throw a close election into the House of Representatives.

Attitude Toward Soviets

Chang Believes Respected Teacher Has Gone Astray

EDITOR'S NOTE—How do the Red Chinese look on Soviet Russia in the midst of today's intense ideological split between the two countries? Here, in the second of a series of articles, is a report which provides some answers by a British author who just toured Red China for three weeks.

By RICHARD P. LISTER

PEKING (AP)—To go to China, you stop in Moscow on the way and again on the way back. It's a good chance to look at the Red giants, old and new.

Every major city in China has its Sino-Soviet Hall of Friendship. The halls remain, but where is the friendship? Ivan, carved in stone, stands shoulder to shoulder with Chang outside, but flesh-and-blood Ivan, who is in China at all, is not readily to be seen.

The Chinese look on Soviet Russia as a loved and respected teacher who has gone astray. They're sad about it but they're not going to budge an inch in their views. The Chinese simply know that they have the right answer. It is the Russians who erred.

The difference in atmosphere between Moscow and Peking is sensed immediately. China is still in the first stages of its revolution. Everyone must have enough to eat and enough to wear, but there is little room for luxury. Much hard work is needed still to achieve ambitious aims. There can be gaiety but it is Puritan, expressed in energetic dances and anti-imperialist songs. There is no space for night clubs, gambling dens or dance halls. Chang may go out in the evening to the opera or a play or to some doctrinal go-round but he is back home in bed not long after ten o'clock.

And yet, where Russia may often seem grim or hostile, China as often seems friendly and gay. Why? Not the system, certainly.

In 1881, Clara Barton founded the American Red Cross at Washington, D.C.

In 1945, Syria and Lebanon proclaimed their independence from France.

In 1956, the first U.S. hydrogen bomb to be dropped from an airplane was exploded over the Bikini Atoll in the Pacific.

School-Age Children Are Millionaires Now

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—The school-age children of a Manchester textile magnate became millionaires Monday through a deal carried out by their father.

Michael Miller sold the family clothing companies to chain store tycoon Isaac Wolfson for 4,325,000 pounds ($12,110,000). The companies' 900,000 shares were held by Carol Miller, 15, and her brother Stephen, 12. The money will be held in trust for them and they will not have to pay inheritance taxes on it.

China's regime is probably the stricter. It may lie in the people themselves, moulded to a less rugged pattern than the Russians by a mellow climate and a long tradition of civilization.

Russia has transformed its drab scene with consumer goods in recent years. The contrast in China is striking. There are plenty of things in the Chinese shop windows but the monotony is oppressive. The same shirts, the same teacups, the same hairbrushes, pipes, bicycles, cigarette lighters, face towels, are to be found in every shopping street in every town in China. Luxury goods of exquisite design and workmanship can also be purchased freely but to the ordinary Chinese they are hardly even a hypothetical interest. When a bicycle or a radio costs two and a half months' wages, a TV set (nine-inch screen) seven months' wages, and a man must work for nine days for the price of a pair of leather shoes, he does not think about buying jade Buddhas.

In contrast to this austerity, the scene in Moscow looks more and more like the luxurious West. Is it the slackening of pure Communist standards, or merely a sign of the national character? For instance, hordes of youths on the Moscow streets beg the tourist for ballpoint pens while in China you cannot even persuade a child to accept a piece of candy.

There's another striking difference. Chinese "face" seems more important than Russian "face." A Chinese waiter or porter will not accept a tip any more than a child a piece of candy. He is unwilling to consent to anything that puts him in an inferior position. This age-old sensitivity to any loss of prestige is reinforced in present-day China by a fear of public opinion.

In the West, the Smiths must keep up with the Joneses on motor cars, TV sets, washing machines; in China what worries Chang is that he may fall too far behind Chen in output per shift. It is only the citizen with a rare thick skin who backslides so far as to need more stringent "re-education."

The disinclination to accept favors from foreigners is accounted for to some extent by the sheer unfamiliarity with foreigners. The traveler in China is soon aware that he is a rarity. Once he goes more than ten yards from his hotel he is unlikely to see a Western face. He is stared at in frank curiosity. If he stops to buy something he is immediately wedged against the counter by a curious crowd. They stare and often they laugh. The chances are they're not being rude by their laughs. Laughter itself can mean embarrassment. If you greet them with the universal "Ni Hao" (hello) they ni-hao back with enthusiasm and laugh even louder. On festive occasions, they are likely to fall back into orderly lines and applaud. The traveler claps back, Russian style.

The crowds, though curious, are neither suspicious nor hostile. These are our Western friends, they seem to say, if they were not our friends they would not come to see us. The fact that official Chinese eyes see Western governments as "predatory imperialists" seems to make no difference.

Whether it has anything to do with the scarcity of foreigners or not, a further point gradually reveals itself: The ignorance of the Chinese concerning the West is almost total. A Chinese who traveled with our group naturally developed a sense of belonging to us and thus a feeling of confidence. At last he hesitantly asked an unforgettable question.

He clearly did not want to make the friendly foreigner lose face but he simply had to know: "Tell me," he asked, "in your country, can you still buy a slave?"

FLASH FLOOD — This was the scene Thursday in the 200 block on South Ohio following the cloudburst that afternoon. The picture was snapped by Larry Mopp of Priddy's Shoe Store and shows how a portion of the downtown district fares following a heavy rain.

Quickly Drawn Conclusions On Status of College Grad

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: College graduates are getting smarter every year.

Members of the class of 1963 know more than did members of the class of a generation ago, 1933, because more was demanded of them while they were in the classroom. College work has become more difficult.

There were no "help wanted" signs out in 1933, and Joe College had to fight hard for a start in life. The 1963 graduate, however, is inclined to view the world rosily, and to feel his sheepskin is a passport to social security. Let's hope it will be.

Breathing Wing Plane Satisfactory in Test

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—An experimental air-plane with a "breathing wing" has been tested here by the U.S. Air Force, satisfying officials that the revolutionary "laminar flow control" theory works.

The design—which uses razor-thin slits in the plane's wings to suck in turbulent air—is supposed to eliminate drag, extend range and improve fuel economy.

Air compressors mounted in wing pods suck in air turbulence caused by the plane's movement, expelling it out the rear of the wing. Tests indicated the new system decreases friction drag on the wing surfaces to nearly zero.

Besides applications to air-planes, the new theory could lead to significant design changes in torpedoes and submarines, developers said.

Ann Landers

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: If a woman arrives at her job in an office without an undershirt she is considered a cheap trollop. Yet a great many men, who are otherwise impeccably dressed, come to work without undershirts. Isn't this exactly the same thing?

My boss is a man in his 40's. He is handsome, a smart dresser and has excellent taste — in all areas except this one. The first thing he does when he comes to the office is shed his suit coat. There he sits, greeting important people from all over the world, both men and women — with no undershirt. To make matters worse, he wears expensive white silk shirts that you can see right through.

I've mentioned this to a few colleagues and they look at me as if I have lost my marbles. What is your opinion? — POOR BUT REFINED

Dear P BUT R: Most men's shirts are made of oxford cloth or cotton. These fabrics are not transparent, so from an esthetic point of view an undershirt is not essential.

Silk shirts, however, call for an undershirt. And if your boss does not know it let's hope he reads this and takes the hint.

Dear Ann Landers: Many organizations are interested in the blind, and other handicapped groups, but few people are interested in the deaf. Perhaps it is because deaf people do not use crutches or have dogs to lead them. They look like everyone else.

I was saddened by a recent column in which a reader wrote, "Many states have no laws to protect the public against crippled, half-blind, senile, and DEAF drivers." Obviously, the writer has no understanding of deaf drivers.

You may be interested to know that the U.S. government spent many thousands of dollars in February, 1962, to gather outstanding authorities in the field of education, social welfare and religion for the purpose of examining the status of deaf drivers. Safety experts as well as representatives of insurance companies were invited.

It was established that the accident rate for deaf drivers is lower than the accident rate for drivers with hearing. Deaf drivers are more careful because they realize they must be especially alert. They must see what they cannot hear.

I hope you will print this and set the record straight.—REV. T. F. C.—INTERNATIONAL CATHOLIC DEAF ASSOCIATION.

Dear Father: Thank you for writing. I am delighted to set the record straight.

Dear Ann Landers: Ours was a "must marriage." But my husband and I are deeply in love and it has made no difference in our feelings for each other. We had planned to be married in May, but when I learned I was pregnant we changed the date to February. The baby was born seven and a half months after we were married.

Our daughter is now three weeks old. What will I tell her when she is old enough to ask questions? I would hate for her to feel she was not wanted or that we had to hurry and marry because she was on the way.

Please tell me how to handle this question when it comes up. It has been on my mind for several months.—WORRIED AND UPSET.

Dear W and U: Everyday I get at least one letter from someone who asks this question. I will tell you what I have told others. By the time your daughter is old enough to talk the calendar will be forgotten. That is unless YOU bring it up, which I hope you will not.

Celebrate your wedding anniversary any time you want to. It's strictly your own business.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Jane Powell Keeping Up Full Schedule

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Thank heaven I can still sing and dance," said Jane Powell, as she discussed the changing patterns of show business.

"A lot of actors and actresses—some of them big names—can't entertain an audience. The result is they aren't working."

Not Jane. She has more job offers than she can handle. Recently divorced from Pat Nerney, she is getting her career back into high gear.

Wednesday night she appears on Perry Como's television show. This summer she will appear in Arena theaters in the East and at the new Melodyland in Anaheim, Calif., as "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Her aim: "To let people know I can play something beside Jane Powell roles. It's the first really good part for a woman in a musical for years. Nearly all the standard musicals are designed for men, except for Mary Martin, Or Ethel Merman."

It's hard for anyone to conceive of Jane Powell in anything but a Jane Powell role, so parallel have been her screen and personal identities.

She is so naturally sunny that you expect her to break into a chorus of "It's A Most Unusual Day." But still, she is no longer a curly-topped coed. She is a lovely 34 and mother of three growing children. She'd like to act her age.

Jane has seen many changes during her more than two decades in the show world. She started in her native Portland, Ore., as a singer on radio. Her sweep soprano brought her to Hollywood, and she served two seven-year contracts as one of the stars of MGM musicals.

MGM made her a star, but it also stuck her with the Jane Powell role, which she has been trying to elude ever since.

YOUR EYES AND VISUAL FUNCTIONS

In the next few weeks many of our young people will be graduating from high school and college. They will enter into various vocations of their choice. Almost without exception their work will require much use of eyes and vision at near tasks, for modern work is done largely at near ranges.

All of us who work in near centered vocations should remember that comfort and achievement depend upon our visual adaption and readiness to accomplish this work efficiently. Indeed, our success or failure at the work of our choice may well be, and often is, determined by the way our eyes and visual functions perform.

Another factor that should be of interest to all industrial, vocational and professional workers is the simple fact that only by careful, painstaking visual analysis is it possible to determine whether or not one's eyes and vision are prepared to do the work required of them. The visual screening done in schools, in many industries as new employees are added, and as a requirement for a driver's license are at best only screening tests.

Still another factor relating to eyes and vision that is little understood is that change takes place as time elapses. Sometimes, and at some ages, these changes are sudden and abrupt enough to make us aware of them. Very marked changes can and do take place in our eyes and vision, however, without being noticed because the change is gradual.

The Missouri Optometric Association brings these facts to public attention in the interest of better, easier and more efficient vision.

Castro Visits Kiev

MOSCOW (AP)—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro returned to Moscow today after a one-day visit to Kiev.

Meter Men

(Continued From Page 1) In charge of the meter department, said the men in the department preferred some sort of brown uniform, washable, and that will not show dirt too easily, as the uniforms pick up a lot of dirt and dust from parked cars.

Chief of Hamlin said he believes the men should not wear the police department insignia, and Lemens agreed that the meter men should have an insignia of their own.

Griffin said the meter department members would not have police commissions, nor would they be authorized to carry side arms. The meter department members will not do any police duty, such as funeral escorts or school crossing duty, as they have been required to do at times in the past.

"This separation of the meter department from the police department was done in accordance with the bonding ordinance passed when the off-street parking lot bond issue was passed," Griffin said, "and this ordinance states that the meter men will do no duty other than that connected with parking and parking lots."

The matter of overparking fines came up in the discussion, and Griffin said that in his opinion, all money collected in connection with the parking lots or meters would go to the parking department fund. This would include the fees collected for overparking. However, the $5 collected where warrants are issued should go to the police department.

In connection with the counting and depositing of parking meter money collected from the meters themselves, Griffin said the committee is working on a system whereby there would be at least two men present when the money is counted and deposited.

"I do not believe it is fair for one man to be responsible for the job of counting the money, and thus be open to criticism," Griffin said.

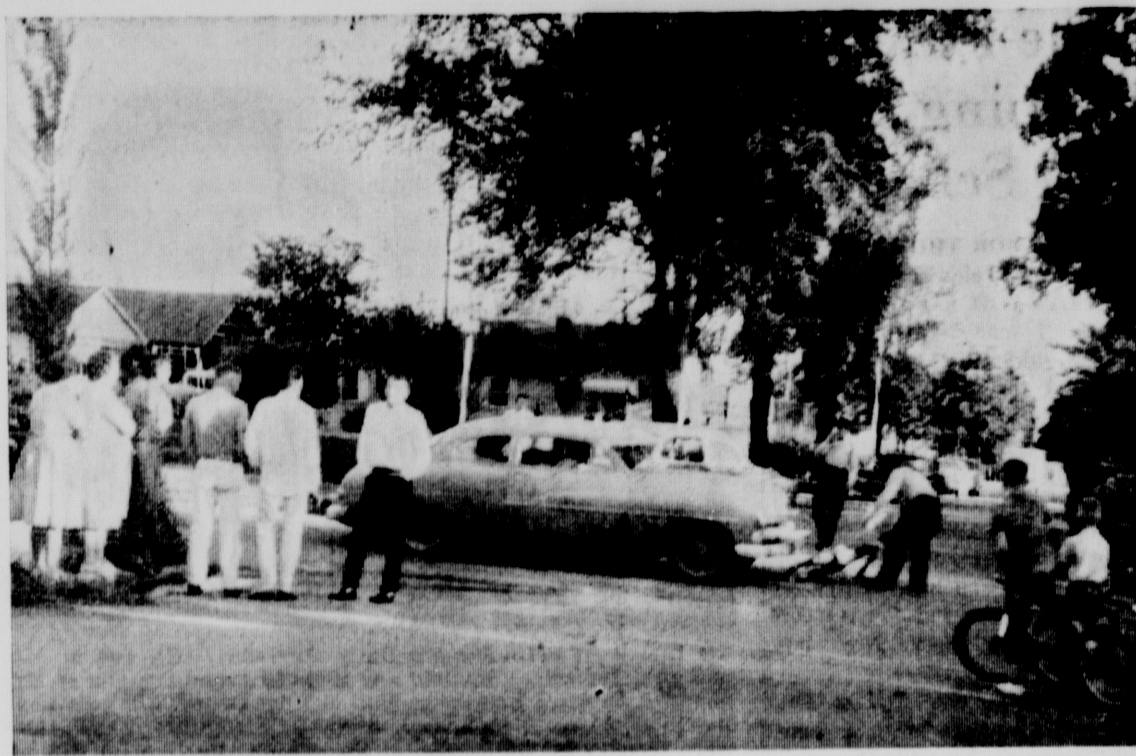

In connection with the job of traffic clerk in the police department, Chief Hamlin said there are provisions in the city ordinances for this position in the department. The failure to re-appoint U. L. Howerton to this position Monday night means that the duties of traffic clerk will have to be assumed by some member of the police department, Hamlin said.

Howerton said that in his opinion, he was not re-appointed because city ordinances prohibit an elected official from holding an appointive post in the city administration. Howerton is the elected city magistrate.

Griffin said that the newly-appointed meter clerk, J. H. Marr, will be responsible for the meter department administrative duties only.

Griffin added that the question of some sort of commission for the meter men, and the legality of overparking fine collection will be taken up and worked out at a meeting with Counselor Earl Crawford in the near future.

"When there is a major change in administration, we know there will be many problems come up. We on the committee will do our best to work out these problems as they arise," Griffin concluded.

MISHAP ON BLIND CORNER—Michael Gregory Parks, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Parks, 1614 East Seventh, escaped serious injury at 5:40 p.m. Monday when his bicycle was involved in a collision with a car at Seventh and New York. Police Sgt. William Miller is shown pulling the bicycle from beneath the car.

Two Sedalians were painfully injured in a one-vehicle accident on a blacktop road one and nine-tenths miles west of Bothwell Lodge about 5:15 p.m. Monday.

Taken to Bothwell Hospital and admitted were Francis M. Kunkler, 23, 1100 South Massachusetts, who received severe abrasions of the right hand, left arm, back and head; Robert N. Gouge, 16, 1001 South Warren, who received a scalp laceration, laceration of the right hand and bruises and abrasions. Both were treated by Dr. J. W. Manders.

According to Trooper Richard Joos, who investigated, involved in the accident was a 1961 Austin-Healy convertible driven by Kunkler. Joos stated that as Kunkler approached the stop sign at an intersection he apparently realized he could not stop the vehicle in time and applied his brakes. The small car went off the north side of the road, into a ditch and hit an embankment when it flipped onto its top in the intersection. The car skidded for 115 paces before going into the ditch.

Kunkler and Gouge were taken to the hospital by unidentified persons who resided in the area, Joos said.

The top, hood and both sides of the Austin-Healy were damaged. The car was towed to Sedalia by Bacon's wrecker.

A blind corner was blamed for an accident at Seventh and New York about 5:40 o'clock Monday in which a seven-year-old boy was slightly injured when struck by a car while he was riding his bicycle. The child was painfully but not seriously injured.

The boy, Michael Gregory Parks, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Parks, 1614 East Seventh, suffered multiple abrasions of the right forehead, and around the left temporal area, bruises of the left arm, right chest and back. He was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where Dr. Stanley Fischer rendered medical treatment. He was later released and taken home.

Mrs. Patricia Kroeger, 21, wife of Arthur Kroeger, Route 2, Sedalia, was driving her 1949 Mercury sedan headed west on Seventh Street. The child, riding a small bicycle was headed south on New York and starting to make a left turn onto Seventh when the accident occurred, according to the police.

A high terrace at the corner covered by shrubbery, blocked the view of the driver to the north and the child was so low on his bicycle his view was also blocked by the high bank and shrub.

Mrs. Kroeger immediately applied her brakes and her car skidded less than a car length. The bicycle went under the car. The bicycle was slightly damaged and no damage to the vehicle.

Circuit Court

A hearing on the appeal of Richard C. Esser, in connection with the possible loss of the liquor license for the Esser Sales Co. on West Main, will be held in Circuit Court at 1:30 p.m. May 31. The hearing date was set Tuesday morning.

Marlyn Kern filed a petition for $5,000 damages against Erdel Kendrick in Circuit Court May 21. The suit is in connection with injuries allegedly suffered by the plaintiff in an accident at 13th and Marvin Dec. 17, 1962. William F. Brown is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Eugene Hayes filed a petition from 24th to 28th at the present time. Both were approved.

Griffin then requested the grading of Ninth street from Stewart to Warren and have the street given a coat of oil to keep down dust. This was turned over to the Street and Alley Department.

Councilman Jesse said the report he took exception to some of the bills in the Fire Department was incorrect, and that he did not do so, but did want to check them. He moved all bills presented on the Fire Department budget be paid.

Jesse then reported he understood the pension change in the Firemen's Pension ordinance had been in effect for a number of years although the ordinance approving such had not been passed through an oversight. He moved the ordinance changes be removed from the table and recommended their passage.

He also reported the old Dodge fire truck is now located in Liberty Park for the children to play on and that "Mr. Black, park superintendent, is very happy about the contribution to the park facility."

Councilman Bader called attention, under the Sewer and Sanitation Committee report, this is "Cleanup Week" and that the Street and Alley Department is cooperating with his department in hauling off all excess trash. "All they have to do is put the trash in their pickup location near the garbage cans, or out on the parkings and it will be picked up free this week."

He reported the Committee had awarded the Garwood Co., the contract for the new garbage truck body and the Bryant Motor Co., the contract for the truck on which the bed will be placed.

Councilman E. B. Smith, under Finance and Taxes, requested permission for Civil Defense Director and his assistant Russell Conn, III, to go to Springfield to a CD school. The cost of the trip will be $50 for which the city, county and government will give matching funds. It was approved.

He reported on a situation on West Main street where R. F. Dump was accused of creating a problem by raising rabbits. A complaint had been made of a bad odor coming from the area, but upon investigating found it was a seepage problem on the Missouri Pacific right of way, and that the company section workers would handle the problem. The seepage was believed coming from the stockyards.

Smith however, said he wanted an opinion from the City Counselor as to what type license or if any was necessary for the raising of rabbits within the city limits.

He also called attention briefly to the recently received Burns and McDonnell engineering report on the city sewer system. He called attention to one item whereby it referred to the West and North Grand disposal plants where filter beds in flash floods often times were over flooded by water. He said in 1951 he recalled it cost the city between five and six thousand dollars to refill the filter beds with sand, and at that time it was recommended to build dikes high enough around the beds to ward off the flooding condition.

He suggested the city use its own equipment, or if necessary, rent heavy equipment and build the dikes and save the city several thousands of dollars by not having to buy more filter sand.

Smith also called attention to the lack of reports from various business houses licensed to handle liquor. He brought out that recently after the public hearing on one business it was agreed that monthly reports would be made to the Council on such places, "and," he said, "I haven't heard a report yet."

He also called attention to the fact a light which was to be placed in the alley between Fifth and Sixth, Lamine and Ohio, still has not been installed.

His attention was turned to the fact a request for limited parking on Montauk in front of the S. P. Johns Lumber Co., for a two-car space had not received any action. The request came from the traffic committee.

Closing his report, Smith requested all business firms holding bills against the City to turn them in as quickly as possible after June 1, and include any May accounts. These must be paid before the Finance Committee can determine the department balances. "The earlier the better," Smith concluded.

The following ordinances were passed: changing a section of the Firemen's Pension Ordinance to

65th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

Sixty-five red roses that looked like velvet in a big white vase was the gift to Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hanley, Bothwell Hotel, on their 65th wedding anniversary Friday.

A perfect marriage that has lasted 65 years, with the couple still so deeply in love with each other that all of their friends and acquaintances comment on it, began in Houstonia, May 17, 1898. The simple wedding, with only the families of the couple and a few close friends present, took place in the home of the bride, Miss Lenox Berry, at 9 o'clock in the morning, with the Rev. Edmund Wilkes, a Christian minister, performing the ceremony.

Mr. Hanley, chairman of the board of the Third National Bank, who has a private office at the front of the building, was in a barber shop at Houstonia, at the time they were married. They came on a honeymoon to Sedalia, Mr. Hanley remembered smilingly, spent $25 of their $40 at McLaughlins on furniture for the house that they had rented for $5 a month. They took a street car out to the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Hodges, where they had a wedding dinner, and then rode the train back to Houstonia.

He still has the check for that furniture, he said, and Mrs. Hanley tried to recall what the furniture consisted of, a dining room set, some chairs, she couldn't remember exactly what all that $25 bought. Someone had given them bedroom furniture for their wedding.

They lived in Houstonia until Feb. 25, 1907, when they came to Sedalia, where he went to work as deputy collector under the late John L. Sullivan, and after that he served two terms as collector of Pettis County. They needed a cashier at the Third National Bank, so Mr. Hanley went to work there in that capacity on Feb. 1, 1922, and has been there ever since, working up to the top position at the bank he now holds.

During the years he has been very active in civic affairs, with always the best interests of the city at heart, helping in every way he could, and has been active, also, in the First Christian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanley have three children, Josephine, who is Mrs. George McCurdy, Springdale, Ark.; David B. Hanley, Topeka, Kan.; and Elizabeth, Mrs. William Seelen, Columbia, and each of their children has given them two grandchildren. Not only that, they have eight great grandchildren.

It was really a big weekend for the Hanleys, for their children are here for a round of dinners and celebrations, and also Mrs. Hanley's niece, Mrs. Adeline Fisher, Houston, Tex. The celebration really began last Sunday with a big family reunion in Springdale, for Mother's Day, and lots of relatives from everywhere were present.

The Hanleys, each of whom insists that the other has a good disposition, and nobody who knows them doubts it, have endeared themselves in the community during these many years as residents, for everybody seems to love them. They may be seen going hand in hand through the hotel lobby into the coffee shop almost any day. They still look as young as just the years they have been married.

"She is the sweetest thing in the world," he said, and when he told her he was as much in love with her as the day they were married she smiled and said: "I don't think he would change his feeling this late."

They received many gifts, flowers and cards on their anniversary.

"We weren't going to say anything about it," said Mr. Hanley, "but it leaked out."

“Victory for Human Spirit”

Some persons say we should not be exploring the unknowns of space while so many of the known things of earth are in disarray.

By this reasoning, Christopher Columbus should not have sailed in quest of a western passage to the Indies so long as peasants in Spain and Italy were hungry and ill-clad.

But even as it is troubled with its failures in zones of life already known, the human spirit must aspire, must search ahead, must soar. President Kennedy wisely described Gordon Cooper's great space flight as a victory for the human spirit.

We must all marvel at the precision which enables our space engineers to thrust a tiny capsule into a “slot” in the sky, send it hurtling through 22 orbits of the globe and then bring it splashing down to the sea within a few miles of its target ship.

Cooper's calm expressness, his sense of mastery over the curious vehicle that carried him, gave a richly human touch to his unique adventure — far and away the longest space flight of any American.

If comparison must be drawn, he did not, of course, match the 64 orbits and the 48 orbits of the two Russians who soared aloft last August. But the difference has to do with Russia's superior rocket thrust. In the quality of our space flight, we are at least equal before the world.

And it is no small triumph that we have now managed six consecutive successful space flights in six tries. The Russians have mounted just four, even though they hold the orbital record. Moreover, strong rumor has it that they have suffered at least a few failures, with disastrous consequences for their pilots.

This nation having done so well, we cannot now break off and bury ourselves in our laboratories for a long hibernation. We must program more visible ventures soon, to impart to our explorations the competitive drive they need in a great competitive struggle.

Free world security is bound up in this race with Russia to master space and reach the moon and the planets. But there is more.

Space is one great frontier of the human spirit today. If free men are right in saying freedom gives the human spirit its fullest rein, how can we dare be second in the adventuring at that frontier?

To fail thus might be to fail in the supreme tests of will on earth between freedom and tyranny. This must not happen. Gordon Cooper has acted for us all in a remarkable flight which in freedom's name accepts the challenge.

WASHINGTON — With everything from Cuba to Laos and back again so badly loused up, maybe they should bring Stanley P. Lovell back to Washington again. After all, he's only 72 now.

Lovell, in case you have forgotten, was World War II director of research and development for the Office of Strategic Services.

Gen. William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, who headed OSS, swore Lovell to secrecy for 20 years on all the devious tricks they played in this cloak-and-dagger outfit. But now that the 20 years are up, Stanley Lovell has written a book, “Of Spies and Strategems,” (Prentice-Hall $3.95.)

It reveals at least some of the inside stories. If it isn't required reading in the more circumspect Central Intelligence Agency, housed in its multimillion dollar palace up the Potomac from Washington, as successor to the screwball OSS, it should be.

Lovell was and still is a manufacturing chemist. He holds some 70 patents in his own name. He was recruited for OSS by Dr. Karl T. Compton of MIT and put to work by Vannevar Bush of the Carnegie Institution — men who knew good brains when they found them and knew what to do with them.

Maybe that's what's needed now — more and better brains with a sense of humor thrown in for good measure.

One of Lovell's first jobs was to hire good paper and ink chemists and put the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to work manufacturing genuine imitation Nazi passports.

Also on the OSS staff was America's most notorious forger, known only as Jim the Penman, who signed Hitler's and Mussolini's names to all kinds of official documents they never wrote.

Lovell's next job was to make counterfeit Japanese currency used in the Philippine Islands occupation. A plane load of it put a severe strain on Japan's economy, but the Japs never caught on.

mundane, on the Baltic coast.

Lovell had been briefed on the U.S. Manhattan Engineer project and knew that heavy water was used in atomic energy research. He also knew that aerial reconnaissance had revealed some 70 mysterious ski slides on the Baltic coast, all aimed at Britain.

Lovell reasoned that the Nazis were developing rockets that would carry atomic bombs, so he persuaded Donovan to alert the Royal Air Force. The RAF raid on Peenemunde in August 1943 set the German V-2 program back a year, thus saving the Normandy invasion.

Actually, the heavy water wasn't shipped to Peenemunde but to Wolgast, where the Germans were working on atomic submarines. But they never got them built in time.

Lovell's greatest achievement in counter-intelligence came after President Roosevelt told Donovan one day, “Bill, you must treat the Russians as you treat the British. They're killing Germans every day, you know.”

Shortly thereafter a team of Russians appeared at OSS headquarters to inspect Lovell's bag of tricks. He made sure that his silent, flashless gun went off with a blinding bang and that his booby traps didn't work.

The Doctor Says

Oxygen Lack Is Culprit Causing Mountain Sickness

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Q — I live near sea level. Air travel doesn't bother me. But when I go to cities that have an elevation of around 6,000 feet, I get headache, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, and I can't sleep. Is there any medicine I can take?

A — You have described the typical symptoms of mountain sickness, which is more severe in some persons than in others. It is due to the fact that at high altitudes the air contains less oxygen than you are accustomed to breathing. When you are in an airplane at 14,000 to 18,000 feet above sea level, you would have even more severe symptoms if the cabin were not pressurized. You are able to tolerate this simulated height because you are not exerting yourself, and are not in the air more than a few hours.

If you were to move to a high altitude to live, you should spend a few days at an altitude of 4,000 to 5,000 feet before going higher. If you are planning a short trip, you should get a good night's sleep before starting out.

Smoking and alcohol should be avoided while at a high altitude. More than the accustomed amount of rest, and a light diet for the first day or two, may help to minimize discomfort. Although most people become acclimated to a high altitude, a few never do. There is no medicine for this condition.

Q — I recently gave birth to a mongoloid baby. What are my chances in another pregnancy of having a normal child?

A — Recent studies indicate that a woman under age 25 who has had a mongoloid baby is 50 times as likely to have a second mongoloid as a woman who had not had such a child.

The chances of producing a second mongoloid gradually decrease as you get older.

Q — What is the cause of mononucleosis? What can be done for it?

A — Mononucleosis is an infectious disease that probably is spread, like measles, by close contact. The germ that causes it, possibly a virus, has not been identified. The disease starts with a loss of appetite and vague pains. There is fever and the lymph nodes, especially those in the neck, become enlarged and sore. There may be a sore throat.

Dialogue from Washington

By Vera Clay

How many of us comfortably could curl up and go to sleep while we were hurtling around the globe in a space capsule?

Not quite yet. Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper, however, presumably slept like a baby for several hours while his neat, little craft sped dizzily round and round, proving, once again, that familiarity takes the edge away.

That exclusive club of men who have gone to space — both American and Russian — grows bigger every day and the miracle of the first shots has seemed to become almost a commonplace.

No one can ever detract from the tremendous personal courage of each of the astronauts nor take away his contribution to science. None ever knew whether he actually would make it back alive. Each was fully aware that no matter how great the precautions and how expert the formula, the risk to him was enormous.

Surely, locked in the heart of every astronaut there must be a super-sense of adventure and an enormous faith in himself, his fellowman and his God.

Equate it yourself: would you be willing to fly around the world in a rickety looking little vehicle, realizing full well that the chances are good that you might make it back to the good earth but then, again, the chances are just as good that something terrifying and unexpected might happen? Few of us have this simple kind of courage and if we do, it only is apt to show under severe crisis: frontline combat, an earthquake or a shipwreck, maybe. Normally, we operate in low gear, dodging the cars as we cross against a light, beating the red light when we drive, swimming out a little bit too far over our heads, talking skeptically about what we would do if anyone ever dropped a bomb directly on us and yelping when we get a splinter in our finger.

The astronauts have been called upon to use their physical, mental and emotional resources to the utmost: upgrading, in effect, the new limit to which the human mind and body can go. Probably we will reach out even further, beyond our wildest dreams and expectations.

Only a few short years ago it seemed inconceivable that any normal man could spin around the earth, all cooped up and bounce back to the land of the living, all in one piece.

The achievement is great, actually fantastic and overwhelming. Yet, some of us have a tendency now to “accept” orbital flight. We are attuned to the success of the flights, inclined to view the whole thing as one, grand and glorious nationwide entertainment. Only the astronauts, themselves, and those who are closely connected with the entire project, deeply understand that the personal risk of life is very, very great. There is nothing 100 per cent safe about a space flight.

Therefore, we should not yawn when another astronaut and still another goes ahead to conquer eventually the mysteries of space. We are babes in the stars, tentative creatures who know only from whence we came but not where we are going. Our envoys, the astronauts, are more courageous than we. We merely will follow and meantime can applaud, pin a medal on their shoulders, send a corsage to their women-folk, congratulate them when they succeed, mourn when they fail and hope that this space roulette game will always come up in favor of the astronaut. When it does not, we accept the fatality and not start laying blame indiscriminately. It is inconceivable that we will be lucky enough always to win against the forces of nature no matter how able our scientists, how courageous our astronauts and how technically advanced our equipment.

We hope nothing ever will go wrong but we should be mentally prepared if it does.

Polly's Pointers

Gauze Bandage for Hem

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — Everyone is quoting Polly's Pointers. So here is one to add to the collection. I use three-inch gauze bandage for facing hems, especially in children's dresses. It is easy to tint the gauze to match the color of the dress or at least to blend with it. — E. F. G.

DEAR POLLY — When knitting, it is often necessary to join a new ball of yarn in the middle of a row. Just unravel an inch on the end of each of the pieces to be joined. Moisten with your finger and roll the ends together in the palm of your hand. Result, a firm joining with no unsightly knot to mar your knitting. — G. F.

DEAR POLLY — I have used many of your wonderful hints. Here is a discovery of mine that may help readers cut down on the breakage of dishes caused by hitting the faucet of the kitchen sink. Over the end of the faucet slip one of those rubber rings that are made to make candles fit more snugly in candle holders. I have saved many cups and glasses this way. — ALICE

DEAR POLLY — This is really my daughter's idea, but I am passing it on. She took the head and front legs of an old over-stuffed toy rabbit (any other four-legged animal would do) and put it on a short cane to make a riding horse for her tiny girl. — GRANDMA

DEAR POLLY — I keep two discarded plastic spray lotion bottles, filled with water, in the glove compartment of my car. I find them very handy for an emergency hand rise or for a quick squirt on the windshield when it needs cleaning. I just squirt a stream of water and turn on the windshield wipers. To fill, simply squeeze out some air, then immerse the bottle in a container of water and release the pressure. — MARIE

DEAR POLLY — Now in the midst of spring housecleaning, I find that a plastic bowl scraper works fine for patching up holes with patching plaster. I have used mine on holes four inches wide. — MRS. C. J. K.

DEAR POLLY — I think most mothers of young daughters will appreciate my idea. Their dolls have so many outfits and require a lot of hangers. I make all the doll clothes and instead of buying hangers, make them out of pipe cleaners. Use one bent to make a slight slope down from the center point with the ends turned under and half of another one to make the hook. — MRS. L. L.

DEAR POLLY — I have three small children, so I know my hint is useful. I always keep two or three adhesive bandages tucked in my wallet. It has proved so helpful to have them handy when the children fall and hurt themselves. My wallet is always with me, so I frequently use my emergency bandages for other youngsters, too. It at least comforts the child until you can get home to tend the wound with proper cleansing and medication.

MRS. M. C.

MRS. R. A.

DEAR POLLY — While housecleaning, I took down some old pictures and in removing the nails from the wall, accidentally pulled a little of the plaster away leaving an ugly hole. I found I had no paint left to touch up the spot on the painted wall, so hit on the idea of pasting on a small piece of paper (the same color as the wall) that came off the paint chart given me by the paint store. It matched exactly and no one is aware of the hole.

Stilts have long been a plaything as well as a means of crossing marshes and bogs. The Belgian city of Namur, which suffered from overflowing rivers, was famed for its stilts. During the sixteenth century, a company of stiltwalkers, soldiers from Namur so pleased the archduke that he conferred upon the city a perpetual exemption from the beer tax.

PASADENA (Calif.) STAR-NEWS: Patient Diplomacy.—Many intelligent newspaper readers who cultivate an enlightened interest in world affairs often do not read very far down, we suspect, into stories on negotiations with the Soviet Union on such matters as a ban on nuclear testing or disarmament in general.

They are discouraged from detailed perusal of such accounts, no doubt, by the prevalence of such statements:

“The participants said later that the exchange of views had been useful.”

“Talks apparently will continue despite the lack of progress.”

“The (fill in) dispute will enter its —th year next with the two sides still talking and still deadlocked.”

“But this will be an exercise in subtleties, for the formal Soviet position has not changed.”

“Soviet intentions at this stage are the subject of continuing speculation, but the White House door will remain open for further discussions.”

“Moscow was informed that it had offered an unacceptable proposal.”

“There is no desire to arouse false hopes at this time, but every effort will be made to keep the channels of communication clear.”

SOME Does Care

Returning from lunch a little less than full so that those who are genuinely hungry may eat is a new manifestation of American generosity at the individual's level.

Employees of an industrial plant in Painesville, Ohio, cut down on their meals one recent Friday, and contributed the money saved to a program dubbed “SOME” (So Others Might Eat).

Proceeds went to CARE, the international relief organization which sends food and other packages for distribution to needy persons around the world. To make a bad pun of a worth-while endeavor, SOME does CARE.

Hospital Birth for New Kennedy Baby

(Editor's Note — The Washington Merry-Go-Round today is written by Drew Pearson's associate, Jack Anderson.)

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The new Kennedy offspring is not going to be born in the White House. This has been decreed by the White House doctors, who say the new baby will probably be a Caesarean and they want the most up-to-date facilities on hand for the delivery in a hospital.

President Kennedy was not born in a hospital. This information came out during a recent talk between the President and a 90-year-old doctor, E. E. Novak of New Prague, Minn., whom Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., took to the White House for a chat. Humphrey explained to the President that Dr. Novak has practiced medicine for 68 years and has delivered more than 5,000 babies.

“You know, I delivered most of them at home,” added the aged but alert doctor.

“I was born at home, not in a hospital,” remarked the President. Then he turned to Humphrey and asked: “How about you, Hubert?”

“Me, too,” said the Senator. “I was born over a drugstore.”

Laws Lacking on Race Riots

Attorney General Robert Kennedy, prodded by a bipartisan group of senators, is studying whether he needs new laws to prevent future race riots.

He reported to the senators behind closed doors on the Birmingham riots and listened to their suggestions for keeping the peace between Negroes and whites.

Kennedy claimed that the Birmingham police chief actually had done a good job of curbing the riots with a minimum of bloodshed. He blamed Safety Commissioner Eugene “Bull” Connor for what harsh methods were used.

The Attorney General pointed out that no federal laws were violated in Birmingham, that the only authority the Justice Department had for intervening was an 1871 statute authorizing the federal government to suppress violence when it threatened citizens.

This led Sen. Phil Hart, Detroit Democrat, to express “grave concern” over the “legislative gap” in the Civil Rights Laws. He suggested there was a need for “clearer statutory authority.”

Under the present laws, all the federal government can do is use its good offices to head off a race dispute or wait until the riot erupts to suppress it.

Sen. Hart suggested that the Attorney General should have authority to go to the courts and get an immediate order against threatened mob action.

This would bring the influence of the court to bear upon the mob leaders in advance and permit the federal government to move in with marshals or troops to enforce the court order immediately.

The idea was supported by most of the senators at the closed-door conference, including Mansfield of Montana, Humphrey of Minnesota, Douglas of Illinois (Democrats), Javits of New York, Keating of New York, and Kuchel of California (Republicans).

Indeed, Javits earlier had wanted to offer this idea in the form of a Civil Rights amendment to the Feed Grain Bill which passed the Senate last week.

But Humphrey talked him out of it, warning that a public debate at this time would stir emotions and cause more trouble than it would cure.

Humphrey repeated the warning behind closed doors, suggesting that it would be better to discuss Civil Rights remedies quietly until southern tempers cooled. Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., echoed this warning, and the group agreed to keep their discussions behind closed doors.

Attorney General Kennedy agreed to ask his lawyers to study Hart's proposal. Later, the bipartisan group held another private session without the Attorney General and agreed to press him for a finding.

Studying Possible Effects From Supreme Court Ruling

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A ruling by the Supreme Court seems likely to restrict the New York Stock Exchange in denial of services to nonmembers.

The extent of its possible effect on exercise of exchange disciplinary powers was not clear.

The exchange withheld comment pending study of Monday's ruling. However, one Wall Street source familiar with the problem said it appears nonmembers refused exchange wire connections will have to be served with formal reasons and a chance to reply.

"It (The ruling) doesn't seem to affect the exchange's over-all disciplinary powers, only the way in which they are exercised with respect to nonmembers," the same source said.

In a 7-2 decision, the Supreme Court held that the Securities Exchange Act does not give the exchange immunity from antitrust laws.

The exchange had asserted such immunity in ordering member firms to sever wire connections with a nonmember Dallas, Tex., securities concern. It refused the Dallas concern's demand for a statement of reasons, at the same time saying an exchange investigation had turned up some.

The exchange treats members and nonmembers differently in disciplinary matters.

A member found by "Big Board" investigators to be violating the exchange constitution or rules is served with charges and specifications, and given what amounts to a trial before the board of governors which may impose penalties.

At the hearing, the accused member is given a right of defense and cross-examination, although professional counsel is not allowed and courtroom rules of evidence do not apply.

A nonmember lacks these privileges.

The Supreme Court said the exchange was wrong in not extending them to Harold J. Silver and his Municipal Securities Co. of Dallas. One Wall Streeter commented:

"The Supreme Court ruling removes from the hands of the exchange a club it has used to keep nonmembers in line."

Unemployment, Gold Losses At Stake in Tariff Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — More is at stake in the tariff battle between the United States and the Common Market than an American-French clash over formulas for duty cutting.

Two of Washington's biggest problems—loss of gold and unemployment—are involved.

Washington has tied its efforts to spur U.S. exports to its plan for wide tariff cuts—up to 50 per cent across-the-board — and the Common Market regards this coolly.

The United States needs greater export totals to combat its currently increasing balance of payments deficit and loss of gold reserves, and also to spur industrial output at home and thus create more jobs.

At Geneva the six European countries in the Common Market gave some ground Monday. They agreed to American demands for across-the-board tariff cuts — but only if the United States will accept an automatic formula for adjusting any gaps between high American tariffs and lower European ones. They said nothing about other instances where European tariffs on certain items are higher than American ones.

Washington will have a hard time convincing many U.S. industries that this protection should be slashed while the gate to European markets is opened to a less degree. A number of industries, such as steel, are clamoring at the moment for still higher protection against what they call European or Japanese dumping.

Some have dubbed this a rise in protection sentiment here, reversing the big swing to free trade last year when Congress gave President Kennedy unprecedented power to negotiate tariff cuts running as high as 50 per cent.

Others have reported a rising protectionist tide in Europe, notably in the Common Market and especially in France.

The thinking behind the U.S. Trade Expansion Act of 1962 was that a general lowering of trade barriers around the world would allow American industrial efficiency to increase U.S. exports greatly. This would spur production here and add to the economic growth sought as a means of whittling down the 5.7 per cent rate of unemployment.

The exports also would bring in more dollars. And they are needed if the United States is to combat its deficit in international payments, which in April increased to an annual rate of $3.3 billion, compared with $2.2 billion in 1962. This deficit — meaning more government and private dollars go abroad then return—gives foreigners dollars they can turn in to the U.S. Treasury for gold. These reserves have been pared sharply in recent years. One of Washington's toughest problems is how to halt this.

But the Common Market, apparently under French leadership, is showing little enthusiasm for letting more American goods into Europe. Most of its industries have now been built up to the point they can supply the home market and look for other markets on other continents.

Europeans also resent recent increases in duties here on imports of some products that American industries charge are so low priced as to drive the home product off the domestic market. The tariff battle at Geneva is only starting. But European demands that the United States make deeper slashes than the Common Market does will arouse strong opposition among some industries here. Other American firms, anxious to widen their European markets, will be just as anxious for American negotiators to get every possible tariff cut abroad they can.

Two Pitching Worlds

Baltimore Blanks Tigers; Houston Takes Pittsburgh

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milt Pappas and Dick Drott pitched in two different worlds, but both are students of the same school.

Pappas, 24-year-old Baltimore right-hander who earned his Paul Richards diploma a few years back, and Drott, a 26-year-old Houston right-hander who graduated from the Paul Richards school only recently, came up with outstanding pitching performances Monday night.

Pappas limited Detroit to five hits, pitching Baltimore into a tie for the American League lead by blanking the Tigers 6-0. Drott checked Pittsburgh on the same amount of hits as Houston defeated the Pirates 2-0 in the only National League game scheduled.

In the other AL games, Chicago's White Sox moved up into the top spot with the Orioles by edging Washington 5-4, Minnesota dropped Boston from first to fourth by downing the Red Sox 6-5 and Cleveland whipped the Los Angeles Angels 7-5. New York and Kansas City were idle.

Pappas, a Richards protege when the master manipulator of pitchers was manager at Baltimore, recorded his second shutout of the season and his fourth complete game in bringing his record to 4-0. He struck out seven and lowered his earned run average to an amazing 1.17.

The Orioles backed him with four homers that provided all the runs for their sixth victory in the last seven games. Jack Brandt and Boog Powell each hit two-run homers while Jim Gentile and Jerry Adair connected for solo shots that tagged Tigers' starter Phil Regan with his fifth defeat in seven decisions.

Drott, a Richards reclamation project now that he's the Colts' general manager, surprised teachers even more, pitching his first complete game in 23 starts over four years—since June 14, 1959. And it followed by only three days the no-hitter pitched by Houston's Don Nottelbart, still another Richards' pupil.

The Colts managed only four hits off Pittsburgh starter Don Cardwell in the seven innings he worked, but put together two for the only run they needed when Bob Aspromonte signed and Johnny Temple tripled in the fifth inning.

An unearned run came across in the seventh when Bob Lillis singled, stole second, continued to third on catcher Smoky Burgess' bad throw and scored on a sacrifice fly by John Bateman.

The White Sox scored the decisive runs in the sixth inning on a single by Floyd Robinson, Joe Cunningham's double and sacrifice flies by Dave Nicholson and Charlie Maxwell, but needed Jim Brosnan's 2-1-3 innings of tight relief pitching to subdue the Senators. Brosnan now has allowed only one earned run in 11 1-3 innings since he was acquired from Cincinnati two weeks ago.

A three-run homer by Earl Battey that capped a four-run first inning uprising and solo shots by Bob Allison and Harmon Killebrew powered the Twins and dropped the Red Sox all the way down to fourth place. Reliever Bill Dailey retired the last seven men in order to preserve the triumph for Camilo Pascual, now 5-4.

Consecutive third inning homers by Willie Kirkland and Tito Francona gave the Indians a lead they never relinquished. Despite the addition of four unearned runs, Cleveland had to hold on as Leon Wagner drove in five runs for Los Angeles with two homers. They were the 12th and 13th for the AL leader.

Saddle Club Prepares For Horse Show

Members of the Western Horsemen saddle club are laying plans for their ninth annual horse show set for Sunday, June 2, in the coliseum on the state fairgrounds.

The group's regular business meeting was held May 16 with president Frank Zahringer in charge and the main topic of business was the coming horse show.

Co-sponsoring the show this year with the Western Horsemen will be the Sedalia Connie Mack baseball league. The league will be in charge of concessions.

Plans are for the largest show ever held, club officials announced.

The show will be approved by the Missouri State Saddle Club Association and there are 21 classes of competition with trophies to be awarded in each class. A trophy and garland of flowers will also be given the high point horse.

Two approved judges will judge the show and an electric timer will be used in all time events.

Hostesses for the club meeting were Mrs. J. D. Gregory and Mrs. Dale Dirck.

Marble Shooting Tournament Is Set for Saturday

Sedalia boys will knuckle taws Saturday morning, May 25, in a marble shooting tournament sponsored by the Boys Club. Prizes will be awarded in three divisions of competition.

The tournament will be held at the ball diamond north of Liberty Park and east of the Trampoline Center, according to Paul Klover, who will be in charge. Competition begins at 10 a. m.

Boys will compete in three divisions determined by age groups. The first division will be for boys 13 and over, the second for boys ages 10 through 12 and the third for boys nine and under.

The first division will shoot in a eight-foot diameter ring, the second group is a 6-foot ring and the third in a 3-foot ring.

Klover said regular tournament rules will be followed. Boys will be required only to have their own taw or shooter. Other glass marbles are to be furnished.

Reports of Outsized Fish Very Numerous

Verified reports of outsized fish are reporting in from all parts of Missouri almost faster than the Conservation Commission can tabulate them.

The latest came from Conservation Agent Marvin Bybee, who reported a 62-pound blue catfish caught in Lake of the Ozarks. H. J. Weber of Tomahawk Village near Warsaw caught the monster on a trotline using cut bait.

The big catfish is the largest of its kind actually authenticated on Missouri records, but cannot be considered a "hook-and-line" record. That honor is held by Melvin Smith of Lake Ozark, who caught a 56-pound blue on rod and reel. The only larger fish on official record in Missouri is a 63-pound flathead, also a trotline catch. Blue catfish are the largest members of the state's catfish family, growing as large as 150 pounds.

Wertz Named To Serve On Board

Walter F. Wertz of State Fair Marine, Sedalia, was elected to serve on the Evaluation Board of Marine Testing Institute, Inc., it was announced today by Harold B. Schneider, president of the Mamaronock, N. Y. testing and research organization.

As a means of promoting more safety in boating as well as providing more pleasure in this ever growing recreational activity, MTI endeavors to maintain highest standards in all products connected with the marine industry. Schneider reported that this was accomplished by assisting consumers in the selection of quality products, and providing manufacturers with technical assistance in product improvement and development programs.

Schneider also stated MTI was active in providing the industry with current market research information which is obtained through its unique 550 member board located in each boating area of the United States.

Of great interest to boatmen everywhere according to the MTI president, would be the results, soon to be announced, of two MTI testing projects. One project is a comparison between the merits of two substances currently used in life saving equipment. One substance is Kapoc which is imported from the Far East, and other the new uncellular vinyl foam being manufactured in the United States by the Gentex Corp., of Carbondale, Penn., the B. F. Goodrich Co., and U. S. Rubber Company. A second project is an efficiency comparison between the inboard type of heat exchanger compared to the Keel Cooler type using a newly developed fluted tubing invented by the Walter Machinery Company, of Jersey City, N. J.

According to Schneider, MTI is affiliated with the New York Testing Laboratories and with their combined facilities have completed more than 300,000 test programs for over 10,000 well known American companies and the United States Government.

Want Gleason Hepburn In 'Babe and I'

NEW YORK (AP)—George Zaharias, projecting a movie on the life of the great Babe Didrikson Zaharias, wants Katharine Hepburn and Jackie Gleason to play the title roles in "The Babe and I."

"Jackie would be perfect to play me," Gleason said delightedly. "He's about my size and knows golf. Miss Hepburn is a tall, athletic-looking woman like the Babe. It would be ideal casting."

George Zaharias is a man who lives with a memory.

He is a gargantuan former wrestler onetime known as "The Crapping Greek." He weighs around 300 pounds and wears a size 56 suit, the jacket of which won't button over his bulging waistline. His dark hair is thinning and has flecks of gray. Both ears are gorgeously cauliflowered. He has shoulders like an ox and hands like hams.

But tears cloud his eyes when he recalls his life with the "Babe," the greatest woman athlete who ever lived. She died of cancer Sept. 27, 1956.

"I thought I could go on and make a life of my own," Gleason said. "I found I couldn't. We were a team. I dedicated my life to her. Now I can't break the chain. I think of her every day."

In 1960, Zaharias married again—his new bride being one of the Babe's best friends and with a strangely striking resemblance. It didn't last. "She was a wonderful woman," Gleason said, "but she couldn't stand always being in the Babe's shadow."

The world may never see a woman athlete to compare with Babe Didrikson Zaharias. She broke two world records in the 1932 Olympics. She was an All-America basketball forward. She excelled in billiards, swimming, diving, bowling, fencing, polo, lacrosse and even such male sports as football and boxing.

She became America's premier golfer and once beat Britain's men's amateur champion, Max McCready. Six times she was named The Associated Press "Woman Athlete of the Year." At the peak of her fabulous career she was felled by an invisible foe—cancer.

"I'm 32. I'm not going to be a star, I'm just a mediocre pitcher. Thanks to Eddie Lopat (manager of the A's) I have come up with a new pitch, a slow curve. I can get it over the plate for a strike five out of six times. That is the difference in me."

What is so different about a slow curve?

"After looking at me for seven years, the hitters relaxed," Fischer explained. "They knew I threw two pitches, an ordinary fast ball and an ordinary slider. Lopat told me I had to come up with something different. He taught me his slow curve in five minutes."

Erhard Credited With Boom In West Germany's Economy

By CARL HARTMAN
BONN, Germany (AP)—Ludwig Erhard, the man usually credited with West Germany's "economic miracle," says there are no such things as miracles.

"But," he adds, "there are results that border on the miraculous, which come from a consistent policy and the efforts of a whole people."

Consistency and effort have brought this quiet, unpolitical research economist to the almost certain leadership of West Germany's next government.

A chunky man with lots of chins almost no neck and a broad, ready smile, Erhard looks a good deal fatter in his pictures than in life. He doesn't seem to mind. He enjoys the role of the heavy, prosperous German merchant, with a taste for creamy pastry and big, black cigars.

Actually he never met a payroll in his life.

"I have absolutely nothing of what you need to be a capitalist," he says.

Before he took his present job he spent nearly all his working life making market surveys in provincial Nuremberg. For the past 16 years he has set the direction of his country's booming economy, but he has not been in business himself.

He has worked hard for free enterprise and even freer enterprise—hard enough to earn the enmity of many German businessmen who would like to organize the economy in a thoroughgoing cartel system. Erhard calls any such attempt to control prices and divide markets a "sin against the holy spirit of life."

Some critics say the boom would have come under any other policy, given the German talent for hard work and the billions of dollars contributed by the United States. But the average German gives Erhard the credit.

Ludwig Friedrich Wilhelm Erhard was born 66 years ago in Fuerth, Bavaria, the son of a dry-goods dealer. He might have taken over the business, but he suffered a bad foot wound at Ypres in World War I so that standing behind a counter was too painful.

Instead he went on with his studies at Nuremberg Commercial College. In 1923 he married a classmate, a neighbor from Fuerth, Luise Lotter.

He got a job in a small market research institute, supported by the city of Nuremberg, and kept it for 16 years. When World War II broke out he got into trouble with the Nazis, and friends set him up in an institute of his own.

One of the things he used it for was to draw up a plan of what Germany's economic future might be like after a defeat, which he saw as inevitable.

He sent it to Karl Goerdeler, the mayor of Leipzig, an old friend who was the civilian chief of the 1944 conspiracy against Hitler. Goerdeler was arrested after a bomb failed to kill the dictator. From prison he smuggled out a note approving Erhard's ideas.

Goerdeler was executed, but the Nazis apparently never discovered Erhard's connection with him.

When the defeat came in 1945, American occupation authorities picked Erhard as economics minister of Bavaria.

Two years later he was running the special section for currency and credit of the British and American occupation zones. That is virtually the same job he still has, minister of economic affairs for West Germany.

His first major move on the job set the line for this future career. It was 1948 when German industry was producing only enough diapers for every fifth baby and a coffin for every third corpse. The British, who had won the war, were still rationing bread.

A remark attributed to Erhard at this time has gone into German legend. He was asked, the story goes, why he had acted so suddenly. He is supposed to have answered: "If you have to cut off a cat's tail, why do it in little pieces?"

Never Been Troubled By Old Ankle Injury

NEW YORK (AP)—Cain Hoy Stable's Never Bend is troubled by an old ankle injury and may bow out of the Belmont Stakes.

Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim, master of Cain Hoy, said the 3-year-old colt will be given a rest until he recovers from an ankle injury sustained at Keeneland early this spring.

"I don't know how long that will be," Guggenheim said Monday. "It certainly seems doubtful that he will be able to run in the Belmont."

The Belmont Stakes, last of the Triple Crown for 3-year-olds is scheduled at Aqueduct in New York June 8.

One report had it that Never Bend, who ran second in the Kentucky Derby and third in last week's Preakness, would be out of action until the fall.

"That is a bit presumptuous," Guggenheim said. "We have been nursing the ankle, hoping it would come around all right. Now we have decided that we should give the horse a rest and let the ankle heal thoroughly."

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Rumors persisted in baseball circles today that pitcher Bo Belinsky will not be with the Los Angeles Angels much longer.

Latest report is that the sometimes wayward Angel is about to be traded. An earlier report had the southpaw headed for the minors.

Bud Furillo, sports writer for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner, said Monday night a deal for Belinsky already has been approved by Los Angeles General Manager Fred Haney.

Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians, was asked whether the Tribe was interested in Belinsky, who pitched a no-hitter in his rookie season last year.

"We always are interested in strengthening the ball club," Gabe replied, adding quite properly: "I can't talk about specific players. It could be construed as tampering."

Paul did say that Manager Birdie Tebbets had been talking to Los Angeles Manager Bill Rigney, and he observed that Belinsky "has a good arm."

There will be more conversations before Los Angeles departs Wednesday night, but "whether something will come of it, I don't know," Paul added.

Los Angeles baseball writers report Rigney would like to get Cleveland's Gary Bell, a right-hander who's been having some troubles of his own. He has won 2 and lost 3 so far this season. Other players also were mentioned in the talk involving Belinsky.

Belinsky, 26, who has a 1-7 record this season, spent Monday night in the bullpen as the Tribe beat the Angels 7-5. The move may mean the removal of the left-hander from the starting rotation.

Rigney said Belinsky was great in spring training but hasn't shown much stuff lately and has been wild. He said he wants the playboy hurler to stay in the bullpen a while and see whether pitching coach Marv Grissom can straighten him out.

"I hope to use him as a long man in relief," said Rigney.

The Angels manager said he thought Belinsky was behaving himself pretty well this season and that Belinsky's night-time activities have not been a problem.

The dapper pitcher is engaged to blonde film beauty Mamie Van Doren. He's been a familiar figure in Hollywood night spots.

Rigney also scoffed at reports Belinsky would be sent to the minors. He said the subject has not been discussed. "He's got enough stuff to pitch in the majors so why should we send him down," he added.

Great summertime drinks need the crowning touch.
Seagram's 7 Crown, that is.

When a whiskey tastes so good it's the nation's favorite, you know it makes the best summer coolers—with cola, in a Collins or the classic highball.

7 Crown has the smoothness as well as the flavor. And it has them in the right combination. So all summer long...
